Precious Blood Bicentennial

Part of the C.PP.S. jubilee year is Jubilation!, a day of praise and service for youth and their families, on Sunday, August 9, 2015, at the Spiritual Center of Maria Stein (Ohio) and the Maria Stein Shrine of the Holy Relics. It begins at 1 p.m. and includes an outdoor Mass at 7:30 p.m. with Bishop Joe Binzer presiding. Fireworks will follow Mass.

Region 7 Health Ministries is looking for new members who have any interest in promoting the health and fitness of the parishioners of our three churches. The group meets about every two months on Sunday morning to plan and follow up with the various programs in each parish. A background in health care is helpful but not really necessary. For more information contact Beth Anderson at banderson4@woh.rr.com or 937-938-6286 or Sharon Becker sabecker@premierhealth.com or 937-227-9452.

School in Dayton has partnered with gphomestay's residential program! Together, we are offering an incredible opportunity to families in Dayton and the surrounding areas. If you are interested in making a positive impact on the life of an international student and live within 30 minutes of Dayton. You may want to consider becoming a host family. You may learn more at our website: www.gphomestay.com

Host families will receive a monthly stipend of $800 and have access to ongoing support from local Residential Coordinators who can help with coordinating meeting your student upon arrival, keeping you connected with the school community, and mediating issues if they arise. Students come with their own insurance and spending money and stay for the academic year. There are also shortterm hosting opportunities available.

Contact Alan Lancaster for more information at alancaster@gphomestay.com or our host coordinator at 781.996.0429. If you are ready to take the next step and fill out an application please visit: http:// www.gphomestay.com/Application.html

Food For All Campaign

Pope Francis' much-awaited visit to the United States in September will be a moment of great joy, inspiration, and excitement for the Church in the United States. We have all been inspired by the Holy Father's call to put Christ first, particularly in our families and in our love for the poor. He has challenged us to end hunger by 2025.

Archbishop Schnurr is inviting all of us to welcome and celebrate the Holy Father's visit by offering him a "spiritual bouquet in action". "Food for All: Be Multiplied" is an Archdiocesan, collaborative effort to faithfully respond to hunger in our local neighborhoods. Jesus called on his disciples to bring him what they already had, and from that small gift fed an impossible number of people.

Our three parishes in Pastoral Region 7 have made a pledge to collect at least 5,000 food items in the course of this year in support of this effort. United with the other parishes in the Archdiocese the goal is to raise 1 million food items. On the Second Sunday of the month we are asking parishioners to make a special effort to bring food items to the collection baskets in back of church for food that will be distributed through our local St. Vincent de Paul conference. For further information on this project please visit www.catholiccincinnati.org/foodforall.

Pastor's Corner

Today's Gospel reading is the very familiar passage of the feeding of the five thousand—the only miracle to appear in all four Gospels. With such a familiar story there can be the tendency to not listen closely. After all, it's a simple narrative: large crowds are following Jesus because they have witnessed him healing people. Jesus wants to provide food for them and there isn't enough. So he miraculously makes the few loaves and fish feed the 5,000. People are amazed and proclaim him to be the long-awaited Prophet, who will perhaps lead them like Moses did.

But a closer reading is necessary to understand what Jesus is really doing in this passage. It isn't simply a matter of feeding people as there is no indication the people are starving or unable to obtain food on their own. Nor is it about Jesus' ability to change the nature of physical matter. Neither is it about Jesus demonstrating his greatness or his arrival as the great prophet or Messiah. Jesus' miracles are never important by themselves, except perhaps to those people who are healed. Rather the importance of the miracles is what they represent and what they point to. In the Gospels, miracles are often referred to as "signs". In today's reading, the people misread this sign as evidence that Jesus is the Prophet who will lead them in this world. But Jesus is not interested in becoming an earthly king, he has greater plans for the people. So he leaves the people and waits until later to explain the real message of his miracle. In next week's Gospel the followers of Jesus—including us—learn the true meaning of Jesus' miracle. They learn the difference between bread that satisfies their hunger and the Bread of Eternal Life.

A look at the language of this passage reveals the depth of Jesus' actions. Jesus doesn't simply multiply the food and people eat it. He takes the bread in his hands, gives thanks, and distributes it himself. As Catholics, we cannot miss the significance of these actions—it is the language of the Last Supper and of the Eucharistic prayer of the Mass. There is also significance in the easily dismissed ending to the meal narrative where the fragments are gathered up and fill 12 baskets. This isn't just a further indication of Jesus' power. The broken fragments are gathered into one entity. The Greek words used here for "fragment" and "gather" are the same words used when referring to the broken bread and the gathering of people at the Eucharist. In Jesus' time the people of God were scattered and in the time of the evangelist John, Christians were not unified. The same is true today. The hope of the Gospel is that all will be brought into one family with God. We see even deeper meaning later in the Gospel when Jesus declares himself to be bread for all. The significance of John's words are demonstrated further as we know that all will be gathered as believers when Jesus is broken upon the Cross.

The Gospel of John is my favorite gospel in part because of the importance of signs and the emphasis on the Eucharist. Signs always point toward something beyond themselves. In some paintings and statues of Mary and the infant Jesus, Mary is literally pointing toward Jesus. In today's reading Jesus is not about self-glorification—He is sent to bring people to the Father. As Catholics we might be challenged on certain topics, like the Eucharist, the saints, Mary, and even the institutional Church. But we know—and we must tell others—that all these things bring us closer to God. I cannot overemphasize the importance of chapter six of the Gospel of John for Catholics. Jesus not only gave his life for our salvation, he offers us his Body and Blood to nourish us on our journey of faith. Upon reflecting on the significance of Jesus giving himself to us as the Bread of Life, St. Catherine of Sienna asked and then answered her own question: "What would possess you to offer yourself as food? I know, you are madly in love with us." Brother Matt

СМА Update

Archbishop Schnurr thanks the faithful here at St. Joseph Church for our generous participation in the 2015 Catholic Ministries Appeal (CMA). Our parish pledged $21,454.00 to the Appeal, which is 146.14% of our parish goal. This tremendous response is a testament to the generosity of our parish community. A special thank you to the families that participated in this year's Appeal. In total, the CMA exceeded its $5 million goal with over $5.4 million pledged from more than 30,500 households throughout the nineteen counties of the archdiocese. The success of this year's Appeal will have a lasting impact on thousands right here in our local communities. Thank you!
